ATTEMA, the manufacturer of electrical installations, was founded in 1966. With its headquarters in Gorinchem, and its subsidiary in Belgium, the company is a leading manufacturer of innovative products and solutions in the market sectors of installation, infrastructure, building and special products. With its 150 employees, ATTEMA will function as an independent unit within the KAISER Group and will continue to service the Dutch market under its well-known brand name.

Burkard Kaiser, KAISER's CEO, says: "With ATTEMA we are strengthening our position in Europe in the field of electrical installations for buildings, and this means that we can offer our customers in the Netherlands and Belgium a wider range of products and even better service. At the same time, thanks to ATTEMA's future-oriented and innovative solutions, we can provide our customers in all our markets with considerable added value."

Ton de Hoog, ATTEMA's CEO, states: "ATTEMA, a medium-sized company with plenty of ideas for the installations of the future, is an excellent fit in the KAISER Group's structure. This group's international presence gives us access to new markets and groups of customers. We look forward to working closely with our new colleagues."
